

Ability
Relationships
Sexuality

Developing Inclusive Resources for Sexual Health

Ruth Swan: SECCA Project Coordinator for Digital Development

SEXUALITY

EDUICATION

COUNSELLING

CONSULTANCY

AGENCY

One Size Doesn't Fit All!

An Inclusive Approach to Different Abilities

People with ...

- Autism Spectrum Disorder
- Intellectual Disabilities
- Learning Difficulties
- Impaired Vision
- Impaired Hearing
- Impaired Motor Control

Accommodations we can make ...

- Visual information
- Low reliance of text
- Tell-it-how-it-is information
- Scalability of images
- Audio options
- Pair with accessibility options

Cultures

Sexuality

Appearances

Ages

Abilities

Inclusive Practice

Gender

Languages

Learning Styles

Identities

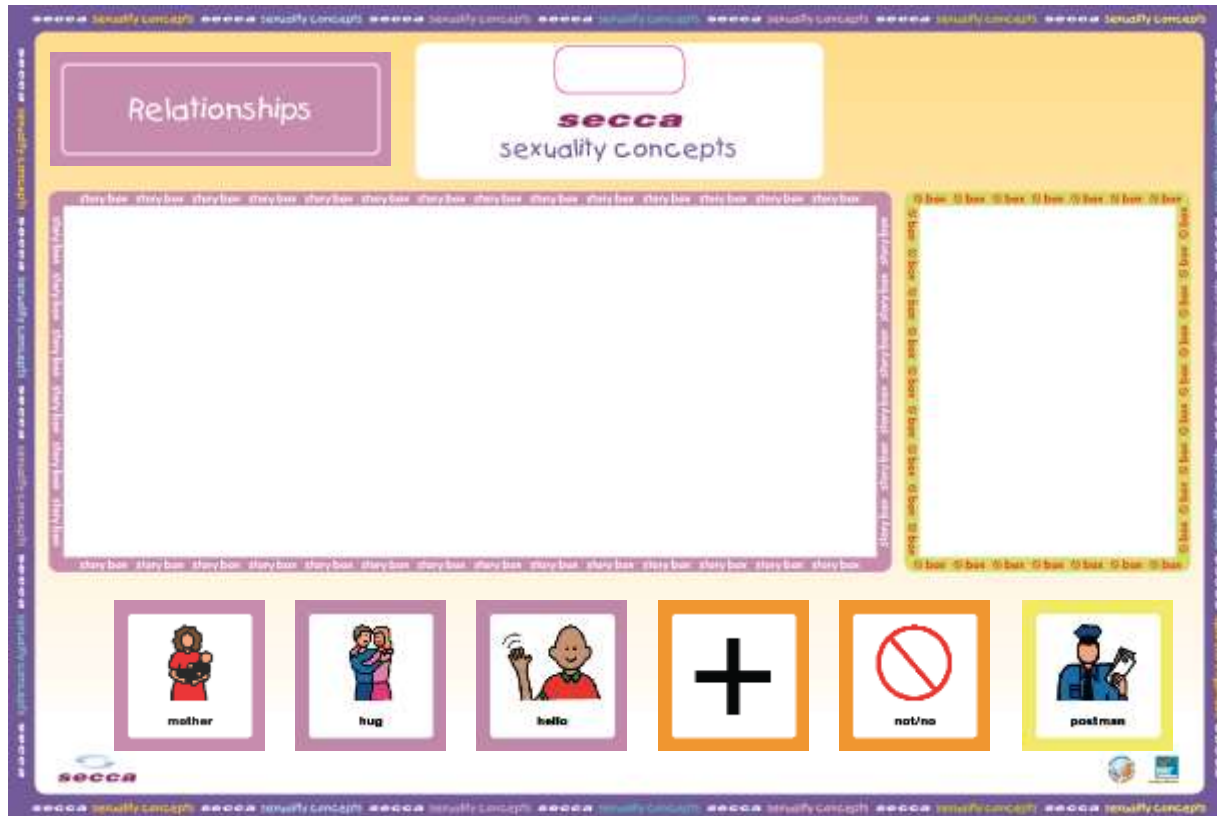

This is where we started

A Steering Committee of Teachers, EAs, and Therapists developed a format for teaching and assessing six sexuality and relationships concepts.

The important parts:

- A flexible working space
- Illustrations
- Guidance for educators

Problems we needed to address

- Heavy, cumbersome materials  Create a lightweight, durable product
- Illustrations not comprehensive enough  Work out what was needed
- Illustrations for a younger audience  Create characters across the lifespan
- Some images were too vague  Functionally and anatomically correct images
- Only early concepts covered  Expand content to include advanced concepts
- Inhibitive cost + training  Funding for a freely available resource + support
- Hard copy production ceased  Create a digital version

The SECCA App

<https://vimeo.com/256369789?autoplay=1>

Our Top Ten Tips

1. Work out what you want to do and who you want to do it for.
2. Dream BIG!
3. Find funding options
4. Get a great support team behind you who know what they are doing
5. Prepare to be upskilled

Our Top Ten Tips

6. Develop relationships with key stakeholders very early on in the process for support with scoping, development, user testing, and evaluation
7. Figure out how you are going to maintain your resource
8. Opt for backend functionality that you can program yourself – we opted for Wordpress
9. Consider how you can develop your resource for maximum inclusiveness
10. Enjoy the ride!

Ability
Relationships
Sexuality

www.app.secca.org.au